PREFACE.

In presenting this, the first Directory ever published of Saco and Biddeford, the publishers desire to say that the work is called forth rather from a desire to meet the wants of the community, than from any expectation, on the part of the publishers, of realizing pecuniary benefit. Such a work will be useful and valuable to business men, strangers, and others coming to our place on business or pleasure; and the important information which it contains, of the history, business, and other characteristics of the two towns, will be interesting to every inhabitant.

The statistical tables, given in the work, have been prepared with great care, are very full, and may be relied upon for accuracy.

In obtaining the names of the citizens, their places of residence, and avocations, no pains were spared to have them correct. The labor of this part of the work was done the first of May, of the present year, and, of course, the Directory exhibits matters as they existed at that time.

In a place like ours, where progress is the order of the day, necessarily there will be many removals and constant changes; and therefore, it is not expected that the Directory will answer for all coming time. It is intended to supply present wants.—In the progress of time, there will be a renewed demand for a work of similiar character, and it is the intention of the publishers, as often as the recurring wants of the public require it, to satisfy this demand.

It is not necessary for us to say more except to express our obligations to all who have kindly assisted us by furnishing us materials and information, with which to prepare the work, and to the business men and citizens generally, of both towns, who have not been backward in their "substantial encouragements" by subscriptions to the Directory.

ABRIDGED HISTORY

SACO AND BIDDEFORD.

THERE is much vagueness in the accounts of the discovery and settlement of the territory in the immediate vicinity of the mouth of the Saco River. Dr. Belknap supposes that as early as 1603, the River Saco was entered by an expedition under the command of Martin Pring, which sailed from Bristol, England, April 10, of that year. Mr. Folsom, in his history of Saco and Biddeford, a work written with great care, and which shows its author to have investigated the matter thoroughly, adopts Dr. Belknap's opinion, and assigns the date of the discovery of the Saco to the year 1603.

The first reliable account there is of any settlement of the territory now included within the limits of Saco and Biddeford, is given by "Prince's N. E. Chronicle." That work, page 25, informs us that Sir Fernando Gorges, as early as 1616, sent a party, commanded by RICHARD VINES, to explore the country with a view of forming a settlement. The place selected by Mr. Vines for this purpose, was near the mouth of the Saco on its western side, in that part of the town of Biddeford called the Pool or Winter Harbour. This settlement, it is supposed, however, was temporary, and made rather for the purpose of trade with the natives, than for any other motives. In 1630, the Plymouth council in Devonshire, England, "for the planting, ruling and governing of New England, in America," granted two patents of land on the Saco River: one to John Oldham and Richard Vines, conveying to them a tract "containing a breadth by the sea four miles, and eight miles into the main land," on the south-western side of the river; and another tract of the same extent to Thomas Lewis and Capt. Richard Boynthon, on the opposite side. The first grant includes the territory within the present limits of Biddeford, and the latter that embraced in the bounds of Saco. June 25, 1630, Mr. Vines, for himself and his associate, Mr. Oldham, took legal possession of the land embraced in the first grant, and June 28, 1631, Mr. Lewis entered upon his land upon the opposite side of the river.

The colonists accompanying Mr. Vines, settled near the sea-side, along the northern margin of the pool; and a part of those who came over with Mr. Lewis, by the sea-side, in his grant. The place where these latter commenced settling is now, and has for many years, been known as "Old Orchard." Thus commenced the first settlement in Saco and Biddeford, which have any claim to be regarded as permanent. For many years after these settlements were made, they were designated respectively as East and West Saco. Mr. Folsom, in his history, informs us "that the employment of the colonists were chiefly agriculture, fishing and trade with the natives; most of them combined these pursuits and were styled husbandmen and planters."

The first legally established court held within the settlements, was by virtue of authority given to Sir Fernando Gorges, who sent over Capt. W. Gorges, who appointed certain persons to act as "counsellors" of the province. This commission, which was composed of seven persons, among whom Mr. Vines, Boynthon and Lewis appear to have been conspicuous members, assembled the 25th of March, 1636, at the house of Capt. R. Boynthon, in East Saco, and proceeded to exercise jurisdiction over the territory included within their commission, to which Capt. Gorges had given the name of New Somersetshire. The powers of this commission, it would seem from the records, were both legislative and judicial. Before them were tried disputes about titles to land, complaints for drunkenness, suits for "slanderous words," and other offences. The house of Capt. Boynthon, where this commission held its sittings, stood on the left bank of the Saco, a short distance below the falls. The remains of the cellar may be still seen in the field owned by the heirs of James Gray, not far from the foot of Common street.

The records of New Somersetshire are not extended beyond the year 1637. In 1640 there was a new organization of the government, under a charter which Gorges obtained from the King, conferring the grant of the council, which directed that the territory "shall forever hereafter be called the Province or Countre of Maine." The first General Court, under the new organization, was held at Saco, June 25, 1640. The second term was held the September following, when it was "ordered that henceforth there should be one General Court for the whole Province of Maine, every year, on the 25th of June, if it fall not on the Sabbath day, which if it shall, then the said court to begin the day following." It would appear from this, that the first General Court ever held in Maine, having jurisdiction over all the settlements within its borders, was held at Saco. This government continued for a number of years, and until the colonists came under the jurisdiction of the Massachusetts' Bay Colony, in 1653.

The colonists seem to have suffered the privations and hardships incident to the settlement of a new country. They were troubled with conflicting claims for the jurisdiction of the country growing out of the action of those from whom the original patent, were derived, and were much divided among themselves as to where the right of jurisdiction belonged. In 1653, we find that the Colony of Massachusetts Bay exercised jurisdiction over the settlements on the Saco River. The oldest existing book of town records commences in 1653, when the inhabitants came under the jurisdiction of the Massachusetts Colony. The Massachusetts Commissioners, by an order, we are informed by Mr. Folsom's history, established Saco as a township, and appointed a kind of municipal government for the town; and decreeing also "that Mr. Thomas Williams, Robert Booth, and John West, shall be the selectmen to order the prudential affairs of the town of Saco for this year." They also appointed Ralph Tristram, constable; and Richard Hitchcock was authorized "as a sargeant to exercise the soldiery." The first meeting of the inhabitants, of which a record has been found, was holden July 12, 1653. The earliest list of town officers is dated June 16, 1656. The earliest inquest of which there is any record, was held in 1658, on the body of "Mary Haile." According to the verdict, it seems "that she was accessary to her own death with much eating and drinking, we not having any witnesses that she was forced thereunto." Robert Booth was the first representative from the town in the General Court of Massachusetts.

In the brief limits assigned to this synopsis, but little can be said of the private history of the early planters. According to Mr. Folsom, from whose book our facts are chiefly derived, Mr. Lewis, the associate of Capt. Boynthon in the eastern patent, "was unquestionably a gentleman of more than ordinary standing;" and Capt. Boynthon seems to have sustained a character "for gravity of demeanor," and was treated with great respect. This "dignified demeanor" and good character does not appear, however, to have descended to his son John. John, it would seem from the early records of the country, was constantly in trouble. He was lawless, and created great disturbance by setting at naught and despising the powers of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, and attempting to act independently of all authority. His attempt to gain power, and exercise influence "on his own hook," gained for himself the burlesque title of the Sagamore of Saco, as will be seen by the couplet reputed to have been inscribed on his gravestone:

"Here lies Boynthon, the Sagamore of Saco;
He lived a rogue and died a knave, and went to Hobomocko."*

Mr. Vines, the patentee on the south-western side, did not live long after taking possession of his land. He probably died about 1638. He must have been an energetic man.

The religious teaching of the early colonists seems to have been done by different individuals who had "gifts of preaching," for a succession of years. Among these, who exercised his "gifts" in this way, was one George Barlow, who gave great offence to his fellow-townsmen by promulgating strange doctrines. This Barlow appears to have been, in the eyes of the Puritan orthodoxy of the colonists, a seditious heretic, who created public disturbances by preaching the Antinomian faith. He was complained of, and finally silenced by the interposition of the commissioners, who forbade his public preaching or prophesying under the penalty of ten pounds for every offence. The first clergyman who settled in the vicinity of Saco, was the Rev. Richard Gibson. His name first occurs in the records of the courts, in 1636. At the close of 1640, or early the following year, he removed to Portsmouth, N. H. He is supposed to have been the first minister of that place. In 1662, Rev. Seth Fletcher was employed by the town as a minister of the Gospel. We suppose he must have preached at Winter Harbour, as we find that a meeting-house was built there in 1660. The early settlers were very attentive to the Sabbath and its ordinances, compelling attendance on divine worship, by fear of fines, and even going so far as to keep the dozy ones awake during the services by similar legal penalties.

The brief space assigned to this synopsis, will not admit an extended account of the difficulties which the early settlers were subjected to from the Indians. For some years they lived in comparative peace and friendship with the red men. When the war with King Phillip broke out, they were exposed to all the horrors of savage warfare. The Indians in the vicinity, took part with King Phillip, and annoyed them very much, by committing depredations upon their property, burning their dwellings, and compelling them to seek for safety in their garrison. Folsom's history has a minute account of these troubles, which will repay an attentive perusal. From 1673 to 1713, the difficulties with the Indians continued, during which time the colonists were frequently called out to repel their attacks. After the peace of 1713, the dispersed inhabitants returned to their homes, and commenced anew their efforts to occupy the land.

In 1719, the settlements on both sides of the river were incorporated into a town, which was called Biddeford. The first town-meeting was held March, 1719. At that time, the population on the western side of the river appears to have been the greater. The inhabitants on the eastern [Saco] side were most numerous near the sea-side, in that part of the town called "old orchard." In October, 1716, William Pepperell, junior, afterwards Sir William, became interested, by purchase, in the improvements on the eastern side of Saco Falls. At the decease of Sir William, which took place July 6, 1759, there had been considerable improvements made on the eastern side, but by far the larger village was on the western. At that early day, the business of the two villages was chiefly the manufacture of Lumber. In 1750, there were three saw mills on the western side, and one on the eastern, besides grist mills, and other mills located on the falls. The first physician that is known with certainty to have settled in town, was Dr. Samuel White, who came from York in 1750. Among the first traders or merchants of whom we have any account, was Col. Thomas Cutts who, in 1759, purchased the island between the two falls, now called Factory Island, and built there a small house, with conveniences for a store on the south-west side, to which he removed. Col. Cutts was for a long time one of the most eminent merchants in Maine, having been extensively engaged in ship building, and the lumber trade. The island on which Col. Cutts carried on his business, was called Indian Island, and was favorably located to carry on the extensive business in which he was engaged.

By an act of the General Court, obtained in June, 1762, "all the lands in the town of Biddeford, on the east side of the Saco River," together with Indian Island, was incorporated into a separate and distinct district, by the name of PEPPERELLBOROUGH, with all the privileges of towns excepting sending a Representative to the general assembly. This seems to have been the first separation of the two towns, and as Biddeford seems to have had the start of Saco in the matter of a name, the impropriety of calling Saco "the younger sister of Biddeford," is not so manifestly improper as appears at first. The name of Pepperellborough, however, did not, it seems, suit the good people of the town long, for in 1805, it appears they were permitted to return to their first love, and called the town Saco again. We think they evinced wisdom in this, as by so doing we rejoice in the good old-fashioned and convenient name of Saco—a name invested with peculiar associations, and time honored, from its connection with the doings of the early planters, instead of the inconvenient and inflated name of Pepperellborough.

The first town meeting of the town of Pepperelborough was holden in July, when Tristram Jordan, Amos Chase and Robert Patterson, Jr. were chosen Selectmen, and Tristram Jordan, Clerk.

The affairs of the two towns present nothing of interest for a number of years after this date, and not until the commencement of the revolutionary struggle. At this period, Mr. Folsom says, day [24 hours] was estimated to be fifty thousand feet, besides the smaller kinds of lumber, of which a large amount was manufactured. The year ending Sept. 30, 1827, the amount of lumber sawed was 21 millions feet.

The first attempt to introduce other manufactures was made in 1811. At that time iron works, owned jointly by Col. Cutts and Josiah Caleb, Esq., were erected under the direction of Mr. Caleb. They were in operation in 1830, making at that time about 3500 lbs. of nails per day. They have since given place to cotton mills. In 1825 the Island, on which the mills of the York Company are now situated, was purchased by a company for the purpose of erecting a cotton factory. The first mill was erected in 1826, and went into operation. This mill was burned Feb. 21, 1830. The York Company, having five mills, now occupy the beautiful privilege upon which this first mill was situated.

Upon referring to the tables of statistics given in another part of this work, the reader will obtain some idea of the amount and extent of the manufacturing done by this Company, as well as the extent of the manufacturing done by the Laconia Company, located in Biddeford, and the amount of other manufactures in the place. In the progress of time, the lumber trade of the place has given way to other branches of trade—the saw-mill has given place to the cotton factory, and the valuable water power which once set in motion the saw and axe of the lumberman, now drives the spindles and looms of the manufacturer. It would be a pleasant task to note the progress which has been made in introducing manufactures into the two places, and speak of the energy and perseverance which have been manifested in the work—to dwell upon the social improvements made; but our imperfect sketch, which has already extended itself to a greater length than we anticipated, must be brought to a close. The extent of our present business, the number and kind of our public institutions, with many other facts of general interest, can be obtained by an examination of the following pages of this little work. The synopsis which we have given, it will be seen, is but a bringing together, in a condensed form, facts which we thought would be generally interesting; or rather points which would naturally strike the eye of the searcher into its history. We are sensible that we have omitted many things which every inhabitant of both towns would like to know; but our reason for so doing is to be found in the limited space which such a feature in a directory should occupy.

Otis Little, Overseer of stone work.
William H. Hanson, Overseer of laborers.

From the organization of the Water Power Company, down to 1848, its operations were confined to the building of factories, buildings connected with them, stores, and other buildings. The extensive works of the Laconia Company were chiefly built by this Company. It has not yet commenced the manufacture of cotton goods.

A just idea of the business of the Company may be obtained from the following extract from an article published in the Union (Saco,) in February last:

"The last year, the company, under the direction of OTIS HOLMES, ESQ., Building Agent, have extended their operations in every direction. By an act of the Legislature passed in the session of 1847, the company was allowed to increase its capital, and engage in the manufacture of cotton and woolen goods. In conformity to this design, the company commenced labors on the mill site above the Laconia immediately, prepared the foundations for the first mill, and erected it the last year. The brick work of this mill was finished by Messrs. Abram & B. Cutter, who have done most of the brick work for the different companies for many years past, a few weeks since—slated, and is now ready for the machinery. This mill is probably the largest in the State, being intended for about 15,000 spindles. It is 240 feet long, 75 feet wide, and five stories high, besides a basement on the side towards the canal. It is the first of four mills of similar size to be built by the company with all possible despatch. The company is now engaged in blasting for the foundation of the second mill, to be erected the present year. The company has also built a block of brick boarding houses, 475 feet long, three stories high, and containing 16 tenements, near their counting house, which are to be used for the mills now building. It has also constructed on Biddeford Heights a capacious reservoir, sufficient to supply a population of fifteen thousand or more with water, into which the water is forced from the river through iron pipes by machinery. This reservoir is intended to supply the boarding houses of the companies with a constant supply of water.

"The whole number of bricks laid by them, in the various buildings erected, is 12,431,000. Nearly two millions of these were laid previous to 1845, and the balance since.

"In addition to the facts given before, the company has used since commencement 12,000 casks of lime, 3,500 of which was used the last year; 1000 casks of cement, used last year; 6000 bushels of charcoal in 1848; and 1,500,000 feet of various kinds of lumber in the same time; 20 tons of nails; 1000 casks of gunpowder. Since commencement in 1841, 950,000 pounds wrought and refined iron have been used, worth four cents per pound, amount $38,000; $4,600 worth of glass, and 200,000 pounds of steel, worth on the average 12 1-2 cents, amount $25,000.

"The average number of workmen employed by this company, for the past year, is six hundred. The works of the company for the present year will require as large a number. The average monthly disbursements of the company for the year past, has been about $25,000."

Some facts respecting the amount of business transacted in the two places, aside from manufacturing cotton, we have thought would not be altogether out of place in this work. The article in the Union, referred to in the notice of the Water Power Company, speaking of the improvements in the two towns from 1844 to 1849, says:

"Of works carried on by private enterprise, since 1345, we notice first, because it seems to be connected with manufacturing, the woolen mill now carried on by Messrs. Hill & Co., on Spring's Island. This mill was erected in 1844 by Messrs. Bradbury & Hill, and set in operation in the summer of 1845. A part of the mill is devoted to the carding and fulling business for the country custom, and a part to the manufacture of woolen goods for sale. They employ some twenty male and female operatives, and manufacture 30,000 yards of cloth annually.

"The foundry of Jarvis Williams, Esq. has also been very much enlarged since 1845. He has extended it one half, and erected various other buildings to accommodate his extensive business. It is the most extensive foundry in the State. All the castings for the factories building here are cast by Mr. Williams, together with a large amount to go out of town. Last year Mr. Williams used about 1000 tons pig iron, 500 tons Lehcigh coal, 300 tons New York sand. In his foundry and a machine shop, where he manufactures machinery of all descriptions, he employs from 30 to 40 hands constantly, and his monthly pay roll for labor averages about $1000. 375 tons of castings were made at his foundry the past year to go out of town.

"The wooden building 85 by 40 feet, erected by Messrs. E. & E. Baldwin, for a bobbin factory, planing mill and other purposes, has been filled with machinery of different kinds for the manufacture of lumber, iron machinery, &c. In this building some fifty or more mechanics of different trades find employment.

"The space allotted to this article will not admit of speaking at much length of the other evidences of prosperity to be seen on the Biddeford side. The more prominent can only claim notice. Among them we mention the block of brick stores in Liberty Square, built by B. Dudley, Esq. completed this year; the block built by E. H. C. Hooper, on Liberty Street, consisting of three stores, with offices and a hall in the second story and attic, and a block of wooden stores with tenements in the second story, five in number, now nearly completed, built by William Hill, on the same street; the steam saw-mill erected by Messrs. Hayes & Nye, in 1847; the Alfred street church, erected by the Methodist society in the same year. Since 1842 twenty-three new streets have been opened in Biddeford. On nearly all of these streets dwelling houses and other buildings have been erected. We have heard the number estimated to have been built since 1845 at 600.

"In 1845 there were seven saw-mills, running nine saws for the sawing of boards, in operation in the two places. Since that time three new mills for the manufacture of lumber have been built; one, the steam saw-mill erected by Hayes & Nye on the bank of the river on the Biddeford side, above Smith's Corner; another, a new and very fine mill calculated for two board saws, and for the manufactnre of other lumber, by Joseph Hobson, on Spring's Island, and a mill for the sawing of boards in the Baldwin Building. There are now eleven saws for boards in operation, together with saws for the manufacture of shingles, laths, heading, and other kinds of lumber. The amount of lumber manufactured is quite large, but we have no means of arriving at the precise quantity. We should think it would amount to at least 4,500,000 feet annually.

"Of manufactures introduced since 1845, we would speak of the manufactory of Mr. D. E. Somes, for the making of loom harnesses, &c. Mr. S. employs 30 male and female hands in the manufacture of harnesses for cotton and woolen mills. He manufactures for nearly all the companies in this State, New Hampshire, and several other States.

"SHIP BUILDING.—We are indebted to Edmund Perkins, Esq., of the firm of E. & E. Perkins, ship builders, for the following statement, showing the number of vessels built by them and others since 1845 in our place.

When built.	Name.	Tons.	Value.	By whom built.

"There is also now building by Messrs. E. & E. Perkins, a ship of the first class, of all white oak, about 1000 tons, for Capt. Richard Hartley and others, which will cost, when ready for sea, $48,000.

"The Messrs. Perkins are constantly engaged in ship building—average number of men employed in their yard, about 50."

LAUREL HILL CEMETERY.

In the summer of 1844, a number of gentlemen of Saco and Biddeford became associated for the purpose of establishing a cemetery upon the modern plan of Mount Auburn and others, whereby families can be accommodated with private lots, which they can make up and ornament according to their own taste; and for this purpose, a beautiful lot of about 25 acres of land, in Saco, was purchased, lying on the handsome swell, next to and adjoining the late Governor Fairfield's farm. The grounds were laid out by Waldo Higginson, Esq, an experienced engineer. There have been many trees set upon the avenues and paths, and a receiving tomb erected, and about 150 private lots have been taken. It is the design of the Managers to make further impovements as fast as circumstances will permit.

This cemetery is already become an interesting place of resort, and is becoming more so, as the number of private lots increases, and the improvements progress. The officers are chosen annually, in April, and for the present year are as follows :

Josiah Caleb, President.
Tristram Scammon, Secretary.
Tristram Jordan, Jr., Treasurer.

Saco Academy was incorporated Feb. 16, 1811, and endowed at that time with half a township, consisting of 11,520 acres. In consequence of a donation of $1000 to its funds by the late Marshal Thornton, the Trustees gave his name to the Institution. The school is not now in operation, the Academy building having been burned in August of last year. There are several thousand dollars in funds belonging to the institution, and a new building will be probably erected before long.

NEWSPAPERS.

Three newspapers, all of them issued weekly, are published in Saco and Biddeford, as follows:

In that year it was removed to Cutts Island, where it continued till 1807, when it was removed to the village of Saco. John Cleaves, Esq. was appointed Postmaster in 1810.

Dr. F. T. Storer is the present Postmaster of Saco, appointed in April of this year—office, post office building, Factory Island.

BIDDEFORD HOUSE.

THIS ESTABLISHMENT, SITUATED ON LIBERTY ST., In the centre of the flourishing manufacturing town of Biddeford, and but a short distance from the Biddeford Depot, on the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad, and but a few moments walk from the business part of Saco, still continues under the management of the subscriber.

The house was erected in 1847, is very large, having about 100 rooms—and for the comfort and convenience it presents, for either transient company or permanent boarders, it is not surpassed by any hotel in the State. The rooms are arranged in suits and single apartments, well ventilated, and supplied with the best filtered water.

The Landlord flatters himself that it will not be necessary for him to speak of his table, and attention to guests, for he has long been known by the public, and he trusts, by strict attention to business, to merit a share of public patronage, assuring all that visit him, that every attention will be shown them.

Pleasure parties can be satisfactorily accommodated.

A Carriage will be in readiness at the Biddeford Depot to take charge of guests and baggage for the house.

Connected with the house is a new and spacious Stable, with a careful and experienced ostler. O. P. THORP.

CLEAVES' HOUSE,

KEPT BY

THOMAS P. TUFTS,

UPON STRICT TEMPERANCE PRINCIPLES,

Is situated on Common Street and Pepperell Square, Saco.

This House is in the business part of the town, and therefore convenient for persons from the country—is a comfortably retired situation, for parties of pleasure, or the travelling community at large—and they will find as good accommodations—receive every attention in the power of a landlord to impart, and as good a table as can be found in the town.

There is a good and commodious Stable in connection with the house, always furnished with the best of hay, provender and ostler.

THORNTON HOUSE,

SACO.

The undersigned having leased for a term of years the spacious and elegant Hotel, situated on the Corner of Main St. and Thornton Avenue,

Saco—and known as the THORNTON HOUSE, would respectfully inform the public that the Hotel, under his management, is now open for the reception of company.

The house was fitted up expressly for a first class Hotel, and arranged with a strict regard to the comfort and convenience of guests. The rooms are spacious, well ventilated, and furnished in the best manner; which, together with the Bathing Rooms, where hot or cold baths may be obtained at any hour, present attractions as well to permanent as transient boarders, not always to be found in houses of the kind.

The house is centrally located, being in close proximity to the principal business streets, and will be found a desirable abode for those visiting the place, either for business or recreation.

There is an excellent Stable, attended by careful and experienced ostlers, connected with the establishment.

The Stages going into the country arrive at and depart from this house, and carriages going to or returning from the Depot are always in readiness to carry passengers.

SACO, SEPT. 1, 1849. J. P. PHILBROOK.

YORK HOTEL

— AND —

General Stage Office.

The subscriber respectfully informs travellers and the public generally that he continues at this well known stand. Those who favor him with calls, will find ample rooms, well furnished, and in good order. His assistants are experienced and urbane—his cooks know their business, and are faithful, as his table demonstrates. Attached to the premises is a Stable, with good Ostlers always in attendance.

The Mail and Accommodation Stages arrive at and depart from the York Hotel, and seats may be taken for all the country routes. Carriages are also always in readiness to convey travellers to the Railroad Depot, at the regular hours.

In a word, the travelling public will find, at his house, every accommodation usually to be met with at the best Hotels of New England. JEREMIAH GORDON.
